

PWI, formerly known as Precision Winding Inc., is an excellent example of the type of specialized companies headquartered in Wichita, Kansas and with whom the Kansas World Trade Center is proud to have as a customer. PWI has proven expertise in aviation electronics, is known for their ability to provide customized services and solve problems for some of the most respected aviation companies in the world. Their experience in the aviation industry has allowed them the ability to provide services to other industries, such as agri-business as well. And like many Kansas companies, PWI leadership relies on its strong work ethic, innovative solutions, and integrity. We are privileged to have PWI as a customer and look forward to their continued success on a global scale.
